

YOUTH CHORALE

Youth Chorale is the international touring choir of the Iowa Youth Chorus. It is open to 13 through 18 year olds by audition. Youth Chorale consists of well-trained voices that perform repertoire from all periods, geographical areas and styles for mixed, female and male voices.

Youth Chorale performs in four major concerts each year and also sings for concert series, government functions, and civic group meetings as well as presenting educational outreach “informances” in Central Iowa schools.

The choir established its international reputation by winning first place in the children’s division of the prestigious Kathaumixw International Choral Festival in British Columbia, Canada. In 2004, Youth Chorale was invited to participate in the 3rd Choral Olympics in Bremen Germany and returned with silver medals for all the categories in which it participated.
